Tells Polio Policy

The Navy's policy in doing everything it can, within legal restrictions, to care for Navy family members stricken with poliomyelitis is told in a special communication to THE JOURNAL from RAdm. B. W. Hogan, MC, USN, the Surgeon General.

Admiral Hogan points out that the Navy is restricted by law in the kind of medical care it can give to families. The Army and Air Force are not bound as tightly in this respect as is the Navy.

RADM. HOGAN

THE JOURNAL publishes on Page 3 the text of Admiral Hogan's letter and hopes that as a result of the interest stirred in this situation that Congress will be moved to eliminate current restrictions on family medical care.

RETIRING MARINES—The last official act of General Lemuel C. Shepherd, jr., USMC-Ret., was to present the fourth star to Lt. Gen. Gerald C. Thomas, USMC-Ret., who ended his military career as head of the Marine Corps Schools at Quantico, Va., and who was advanced to general on the retired list. General Shepherd was succeeded on 1 Jan. as Marine Corps Commandant by General Randolph Mc Pate, USMC, whose first message to the Marines is published on Page 6.

STATE TAX DUE?

The Journal publishes on Page 3 a roundup of special provisions in State income tax laws for members of the Armed Forces. The due date for filing returns also is given.

The summary was drawn up by the Navy Bureau of Supplies and Accounts.

President Extols Readiness, but Congress
Hears Need to Safeguard "Real Strength"

President Eisenhower declared that the Armed Forces have never been better adapted, short of war, to the nation's needs, but he has called anew for vigorous action to safeguard "our real strength"—the caliber of the men and women in uniform.

The Chief Executive has told Congress that legislation is essential to improved military family medical care and to provide more equitable survivor benefits.

His State of the Union message to Congress on 5 Jan. forecast other recommendations to raise the attractiveness of military service, including career incentives for medical and dental officers and nurses, and an increase in the proportion of Regular officers.

The President's address omitted, however, any reference to a new military housing program. Thus it was indicated that the administration will rely heavily on legislation voted during the last session, which authorizes use of quarters allowances to meet mortgage payments on units built by private capital.

Emphasizing the need for a military establishment capable of deferring or repulsing any aggression and preserving the peace, the President said:

"Short of war, we have never had military strength better adapted to our needs with improved readiness for emergency use. The maintenance of this strong military capability for the indefinite future will continue to call for a large share of our national budget."

The President's report on the need for continued readiness indicates that there will be no fundamental change in the program for the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marine Corps and Coast Guard in his budget message which will reach Congress 15 Jan.

Chairman Vinson Introduces New Medical Plan; Option Would Cost $3 Per Family

Improved medical care for military families got off to a fresh start this week with the opening of the second session of the 84th Congress.

Chairman Carl Vinson (D-Ga.) of the House Armed Services Committee introduced HR 7994, a new family medical plan—the third to be drafted during the current Congress—knocking out one of three medical care options provided in an earlier measure which he also sponsored.

The latest proposal, backed by the Department of Defense, continues medical care at existing military medical facilities as at present and in addition provides the opportunity for all military personnel on active duty to participate in a medical care insurance program.

A basic insurance policy is established for wives and children and two optional plans are set up for parents and parents-in-law and for illnesses not covered by

DISABLED SHOULD CHECK SOCIAL SECURITY

The Social Security Administration of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare reports in a statement—text on Page 22—that many totally disabled veterans can lose out on higher benefits due them unless they take action to have their earnings records frozen. The official release reports that "fewer veterans have applied than the Social Security Administration thinks can qualify under the new provision."

Hundreds Of High School Teaching Posts
Are Offered To Retired Men And Women

Hundreds of retired military officers and other former Armed Forces personnel are being recruited for teaching positions in the nation's high schools.

The Labor Department's Bureau of Employment Security, which initiated the program, states that the move is being made to ease the acute shortage of secondary school teachers, particularly in mathematics and science fields. The Bureau adds that past experience has demonstrated that many retired officers and ex-Armed Forces personnel are qualified for teaching posts.

The plan to recruit teachers from the ranks of former military men and women was undertaken by BES following consultations with the Armed Forces, the Office of Education of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the National Education Association, and the Retired Officers Association.

Retired officers and enlisted personnel are being urged to file applications for the high school teaching positions with the local offices of the Public Employment Service. The Armed Forces and

ORDERED TO SCHOOL

The Army has announced selections for the 1956-57 courses at the National War College, Industrial College of the Armed Forces, Armed Forces Staff College and the Army War College. (See Pages 4 and 27 for names). Last week's issue of THE JOURNAL contained selections for the Command and General Staff College.

Many Bills Half-Way
As Congress Resumes

Dozens of proposed laws for the Armed Forces—some new, some old—were waiting for the 84th Congress when it reconvened in Washington on 3 Jan.

Prominent in the galaxy were six major career measures which will affect members of all the Services. These bills—discussed in detail in recent issues (17, 31 Dec.) of THE JOURNAL—cover survivor benefits, medical care, readjustment pay, academy credit, retirement and reduced rent.

Two of these—the survivor benefits and readjustment pay measures—along with a number of other bills, already have passed at least one milestone on their road to enactment.

For a run-down of the bills touching pay, taxes, appointments and other aspects of military life, which were approved either by the House or Senate during the first session of the 84th Congress, or which were reported out by Committees, and on which final action appears likely early in the present session, turn to Page 7.

Rule Some AUS Time Out; Army Checking

The Army is correcting records of officers who have been credited with periods of AUS service which has been ruled nonexistent by the Comptroller General.

In a decision last October, the Comptroller ruled that commissioned officer appointments in the AUS, without component, made under the provisions of the Joint Resolution of 22 Sept. 1941, were terminated by operation of law on 30 June 1948, unless sooner vacated or unless continued by specific acts of Congress.

Conditions under which such appointments in the AUS were continued beyond 30 June 1948 are as follows: (1) commissions in the WAC, AUS, terminated on 12 June 1949; (2) AUS appointments of officers who had completed a course of medical instruction at Government expense under the act of 6 Feb. 1942, as amended, who were on active duty in AUS status on 30 June 1948 were continued until such officers were relieved from active duty; and (3) AUS appointments of disabled officers who were on active duty in AUS status on 30 June 1948 were continued until their treatment ended and they were released from active duty.

The Army previously had taken the position that such commissions tendered in the AUS during WW II under the 1941 Joint Resolution continued in effect until 1 April 1953, unless sooner vacated. Consequently, all service in an AUS status previously had been credited for pay purposes. This is being corrected.

The Department of Defense has asked the Comptroller to permit application of the decision on a current basis and not to require collection of overpayments, created by the noncreditable service, which were made prior to 1 Jan. 1956. No collection action is being taken at this time.

Complete details about the erroneous crediting, together with a list of categories of personnel excepted from the decision, are told in Army Circular 35-53, dated 20 Dec.

18 Atlantic Fleet Ships In Caribbean Exercise

The first phase of "Operation Springboard" is underway in the Caribbean and the second phase is slated to begin on 2 Feb.

In all, 18 submarines, tenders and rescue vessels will participate in the annual Atlantic Fleet training exercise. One of the primary purposes of the exercise is to afford an opportunity for units based in cold weather areas to operate under more favorable conditions during the Winter months.

Ships participating in the first phase—which lasts from 6 Jan. to 13 Feb.—are the submarines Entemador, Tusk, Trigger, Trout, Harder, Hardhead, and Croaker of Submarine Squadron 10, and the Sea Owl of Squadron Eight. The submarine tender Fulton and the rescue vessel Skylark also are in operation.

The second phase lasts from 2 Feb. through 26 March. Units participating in this phase include the submarines Cutlass, Sea Leopard, Sirago, Tigrona and Requin of Squadron Six, and the Tench of Squadron Two. The submarine tender Orion and the rescue vessel Kittiwake of Squadron Six are scheduled for participation in the second phase.

The first echelon of New London units is slated to arrive in St. Thomas, V. I., on 10 Jan. While in the Caribbean, they will be based at St. Thomas, and will visit such ports as San Juan, Caracas, Port of Spain, Fort de France, Christiansted, Havana and Martinique, for liberty and recreation.

Ordered To Okinawa

Maj. Robert W. Hensley, USAF, received orders at McConnell AFB, Kans., to report for overseas assignment in Okinawa. He came to McConnell in 1954 and has been Staff Judge Advocate since that time.

The Journal Sights The Week In National Defense

THE NEW YEAR BEGAN with President Eisenhower completing his State of the Union Message to the new election-year Congress (Story First Page). This task done, the Chief Executive set to work at the Key West, Fla., Naval Base on the fiscal '57 Budget Message, which will reach the Capitol next week. The Administration will propose about $35.5 billion in defense spending, or roughly $1.5 billion more than had originally been forecast for fiscal '56. Like the President, many top Defense officials were away from Washington as 1955 came to an end and the New Year started.

BACK FROM PASADENA, Calif., where he was the Grand Marshal of the Tournament of Roses parade, Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson conferred at the Pentagon on the military legislative program for 1956, highlighted by the new family medical care bill (Story First Page). The legislative package is brimful with more than a score of other measures vital to Service families. As Mr. Wilson returned to Washington, Deputy Defense Secretary Reuben Robertson, Jr., took off for an inspection trip to Europe and North Africa, accompanied by Assistant Defense Secretaries Thomas P. Pike (Supply and Logistics) and Franklin G. Floete (Properties and Installations).

THE ROBERTSON PARTY was reversing the recent Pentagon travel trend, which saw a concentration on Far East inspections. Over the weekend, Army Secretary Wilbur M. Brucker reported to Pentagon newsmen on a 26-day swing to the Pacific, which convinced him that U. S. forces were ready for any emergency. The Secretary, answering a newsmen's inquiry, noted however that "very, very definitely" the Communists had beefed up their ground forces in North Korea in violation of the Armistice. He thus gave increased significance to a report—published in last week's issue of THE JOURNAL—by General Laurence S. Kuter, USAF, that the Communists are confronting United Nations commanders with the formidable threat of new weapons, such as latest-type Soviet aircraft.

NAVY SECRETARY CHARLES S. THOMAS, who returned to the Pentagon on 4 Jan. from a similar swing through the Pacific, is expected shortly to tell Congress of augmented Red Navy strength in the Far East. From Air Force Secretary Donald A. Quarles, who had received a lengthy on-the-spot briefing from General Kuter in Tokyo, members of Congress would certainly want to have latest particulars on Red airpower deployment after his return on 15 Jan.

WITH THE CONVENING OF CONGRESS on 3 Jan., travel by Pentagon chiefs from now until July will be adjusted in large part to requirements of Capitol Hill testimony. The Chairmen of the Armed Services Committees, Senator Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.) and Representative Carl Vinson (D-Ga.), aided by crack professional staffs, late this week were set to go with quick hearings on important military measures. In an election year, these Chairmen and their opposite numbers on the Appropriations Committees will want to get hearings underway as snappily as possible.

THE MARINE CORPS figures to command considerable attention in the second session of the 84th Congress, in view of the fact that the first session voted funds for more Leathernecks (215,000) than asked by the Administration (193,000). Present strength is about 205,000. It appeared likely that the new Marine Corps Commandant, General Randolph McC. Pate, USMC, a one time Army private, would be questioned at length on what he considers to be the personnel needs of the Corps. Marine Corps Aviation, steadily on the rise, won new prestige as Lt. Gen. Vernon E. Megee, USMC, took over as Assistant Commandant and Chief of Staff—the first Marine flier to hold that billet.

IN THE ARMY, there were no major New Year personnel shifts, although two lieutenant generals, Walter L. Weible, USA, and Clyde D. Eddleman, USA, got new titles as a result of the General Staff Reorganization, which wiped out G-1 and G-3 and eliminated the G-2 designation. (Story Page 4.)

THROUGHOUT THE SERVICES, great interest was aroused by the Gallup Survey findings on attitudes toward military careers with a disquieting conclusion that "a career in the military service does not carry great prestige with adults, at least as of today," but with a heartening widespread awareness of the need to increase financial benefits and improving conditions for decent family life, particularly housing.

PRESTIGE PROMOTIONS

"Prestige" promotions will not be granted to officers below the rank of captain, the Navy reports.

The question arose when it was noted that the latest Navy flag list carried the names of 15 captains authorizing them "to assume the title and wear the uniform of a rear admiral while serving in a flag billet."

18th AF Adds 31 Million Plane Miles in 1955

The 18th Air Force, the TAC's global combat airlift component, flew nearly 31 million plane miles during 1955, principally in Douglas C-124 Globemasters and Fairchild C-119 Flying Boxcars.

The 18th airlifted more than 360,000 military passengers and 93,000 tons of cargo, and airdropped more than 308,000 paratroopers and 4,300 tons of cargo during the year. More than 120 million passenger miles and 78 million ton miles were flown during the same period.

According to Maj. Gen. Chester E. McCarty, USAF, the 18th's commander, last year's figures brought the 18th's totals since 1951 to 74 million plane miles, 771,000 military passengers and 385,000 tons of cargo airlifted, and 942,000 paratroopers and 21,000 tons of cargo dropped. Some 350 million passenger miles and 223 million ton miles have been flown.

These statistics represent long airlift missions, including Army and Air Force unit moves to and from Europe, Panama, Puerto Rico, Japan and other points in the Far East, North Africa and the Middle East, Alaska, Greenland, Labrador and Canada.

In airdropping 308,000 paratroopers during the past year, the 18th Air Force worked closely with the XVIII Airborne Corps at Ft. Bragg, and with the 82d and 11th Airborne Divisions. C-119 Flying Boxcars were used chiefly, but C-124 Globemasters were utilized also for both cargo and personnel. Most of the drops were at prepared areas at Ft. Bragg and Ft. Campbell.

Next Week—

Military commanders during 1956 can look forward to far-seeing tests of intricate new communications systems designed to meet the requirements of nuclear warfare. At the Army's Electronic Proving Ground, Signal Corps experts are putting together four new "operational packages," including a Battlefield Surveillance System that will be tried out beginning early this year. In next week's issue of THE JOURNAL, Maj. Gen. Emil Lenzner, USA, who commands the Ft. Huachuca, Ariz., facility will report to Journal readers on latest developments in electronic communications.

Col. E. B. Litteral Cited On Eve of Retirement

Col. Emmett B. Litteral, MC, USA, Chief of the Department of Neuropsychiatry at Walter Reed Army Medical Center in Washington, D. C., has been awarded a citation for "faithful and devoted service in the Medical Department of the United States Army." The award was made in the office of the Commanding General of Walter Reed, Maj. Gen. Leonard D. Heaton the day before Colonel Litteral's retirement after twenty-six years in the Army.

Beginning his military career as an intern at Walter Reed Army Hospital in 1929, Colonel Litteral has served in New Guinea, the Panama Canal Zone, the Philippine Islands and Letterman Army Hospital in California prior to his return to Walter Reed in 1953.

Mrs. Emmett B. Litteral, the former Harriett A. Faries, is originally from Omaha, Nebr. Her husband has also been awarded the Legion of Merit.

Here is Summary of Service Tax Provisions

THE following is a State-by-State summary of income tax laws, as prepared by the Navy's Bureau of Supplies and Accounts. It tells the due date for filing returns and the special provisions, if any, applicable to members of the Armed Forces.

Generally, all persons legally resident or domiciled in a State on the last day of a taxable year are liable to the income tax laws of this State, even though they are not physically present therein during the year.

It is stated that persons are usually liable for income taxes to the State in which they are living or deriving their income, as well as to the State in which they are legally resident or domiciled.

However, the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act provides substantially that a member of the Armed Forces who is legally resident in or domiciled in one State and living in another State solely by reason of military orders is not liable to the State in which he is so living for income taxes, with respect to his Service pay.

This law does not exempt retired and retainer pay, the separate income of a spouse or family of a Service person, or income of a Service person derived from business, investments, rents and other sources.

Alabama—15 April. None. Members outside U. S. may defer filing until 30 days after return to U. S.

Alaska—15 April. All active-service pay exempt beginning 1 Jan. 1951. Members may defer paying until 6 months after discharge if ability to pay is impaired by reason of service.

Arizona—15 April. $1,000 active-service pay exempt. Members outside U. S. may defer filing returns and payment of tax, without interest or penalty, until 180 days after release or termination of present emergency, whichever is earlier.

Arkansas—15 May. All active-service pay excluded from gross income.

California—15 April. $1,000 active-service pay received after 30 June 1952 is exempt. Members outside U. S. on or after 8 April 1953 granted automatic extension for filing returns and payment of tax, without penalty or interest, until 180 days after return to U. S., or 6 June 1955, whichever is later, if released after 8 December 1954. Those discharged before 9 Dec. 1954 granted extension of 180 days after discharge.

Colorado—15 April. $2,000 of active or reserve pay from gross income during a time of war or national emergency; $1,000 may be excluded during any year that the United States is not in a state of war or national emergency. (The $2,000 exclusion will apply to 1955.) Members may defer filing returns and payment of tax without penalty or interest until one year after separation.

Connecticut—No tax.

Delaware—30 April. None. Members may, upon written application, be granted deferment for filing and paying until 6 months after discharge.

District of Columbia—15 April. None. Deferment for filing returns or paying taxes granted members outside the U. S. until 6 months after return.

Florida—No tax.

Georgia—15 April. $1,500 active-service pay excluded from gross income from 1 Jan. 1950 until termination of the Korean conflict. (This exclusion will apply for 1955.) Deferment for filing returns or paying taxes granted members of the Armed Forces outside continental United States until the 15th day of the fourth month after return to the U. S.

Guam—15 April. Income of members subject to same computations as for Federal returns.

Deferment granted members for filing returns and paying taxes until 1 year after discharge or 1 year after termination of present world crisis, whichever is earlier.

Kentucky—15 April. Income subject to same computations as for Federal returns. Members may defer filing returns and paying taxes until 12 months after termination of the national emergency, or termination of military service, whichever is earlier.

Examples Tell Tax Rules for Military

The Navy's report on State income tax requirements for persons in uniform gives the following examples, which tell how the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act is applicable:

"A member of the Armed Forces legally resident or domiciled in Ohio was ordered to duty in the Department of the Navy and moved with his family to Arlington, Virginia. He has no income other than his active-service pay. Since Ohio has no income-tax laws he is not required to file a return to the State of Ohio, and, under the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act of 1940, as amended, he is not liable for filing a Virginia return.

"Another member whose home is in Vermont, and to which State he pays income taxes, is on active duty in California and buys a house there, not for the purpose of changing his legal domicile, but only for the purpose of providing a place of shelter for himself and family while on active duty in California. It is his intention to maintain his domicile in Vermont and to return there upon release from active duty. He will be required to continue filing his State return to Vermont, and under section 514 of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act of 1940, as amended, California will not be permitted to impose an income tax on his service pay even though he owns real property in that State.

"If, however, he is transferred from California and rents the house as investment property, he may find himself liable to file a California return to report the rental income. If in the above example, the serviceman decided to change his domicile to California, he would thereby confer upon California jurisdiction to impose an income tax upon his income from all sources."

ning calendar year 1951. Substantially follows Federal law with respect to deferments by members.

Massachusetts—15 April. None.

Michigan—No tax.

Minnesota—15 April. $3,000 active-service pay excluded from gross income. Members outside U. S. continuously for more than 90 days granted extension of time until 6 months after return.

Mississippi—15 April. None.

Missouri—15 April. $3,000 active-service pay exempt beginning with 1951.

Montana—15 April. None. Members may defer filing returns and paying taxes until 6 months after discharge in cases of undue hardship caused by military service.

Nebraska—No tax.

Nevada—No tax.

New Hampshire—1 May. None.

New Jersey—No tax.

New Mexico—15 April. None.

New York—15 April. All compensation for active service excluded from gross income from 1 Jan. 1942 until 31 Dec. 1955, or termination of present emergency as proclaimed by the President, whichever is earlier.

North Carolina—15 April. All active service pay excluded until 31 Jan. 1955; none thereafter.

North Dakota—15 April. All active-service pay exempt. Deferment granted to members until the 15th day of 6th month following discharge.

Ohio—No personal income tax, but residents of some Ohio cities and municipalities may be liable for income taxes.

Oklahoma—15 April. $1,500 of active-service pay excluded until 1 Jan. 1955; none thereafter.

Oregon—15 April. $3,000 active-service pay

Navy Surgeon General Tells Polio Policy

ARMY, NAVY, AIR FORCE JOURNAL
1711 Connecticut Avenue, N. W.
Washington 9, D. C.

Dear Sir:

I am writing this letter in connection with an article which appeared in THE JOURNAL of 24 December 1955, captioned, "Service Polio Care Marked by Confusion; Navy Declines Families; Army, AF Differ."

First, I desire to point out that uncoordinated, unofficial and unauthenticated statements such as appeared in this article and attributed to Navy sources can hardly aid in lessening the so-called "confusion" incident to the dreaded disease poliomyelitis. It would seem far better, when dealing with a subject which already has generated fear and mental anguish in so many American families, to seek an official statement from authoritative sources rather than to resort to various telephone calls requesting spontaneous information.

The article in question, while adhering generally to our policy governing the treatment of poliomyelitis in dependents, nevertheless, portrays the Navy Medical Department in a most unfavorable light by the omission of pertinent facts highly relative to any discussion of this subject.

The Navy renders medical care to dependents of active duty military personnel in accordance with the provisions of Public Law 51-78th Congress. Section 5 of this Act states in part, "Hospitalization for the dependents of naval and Marine Corps personnel and of the persons outside the naval service mentioned in section 4 of this Act shall be furnished only for acute medical and surgical conditions, exclusive of nervous, mental or contagious diseases . . ."

Until such time as the Congress amends this law or passes new legislation providing for the treatment of dependents with contagious diseases in military hospitals it is anticipated that the Navy's present policy in this regard will continue in effect.

However, the Navy has at all times endeavored to see that dependents afflicted with poliomyelitis are admitted to a civilian hospital designated in the community to care for such cases. These hospitals are especially staffed and equipped to render the best available care and treatment for poliomyelitis, in which disease it is so essential to have the highest degree of professional teamwork. In this respect it is to be noted that many civilian hospitals will not accept polio cases but refer them to one hospital in the community that has been designated for this mission.

Whenever facilities are not available or during epidemics when civilian hospitals are filled the Navy cares for dependents. The most recent example of this was during last summer's epidemic in Boston, Massachusetts, when the U. S. Naval Hospital, Chelsea, cared for several cases of poliomyelitis both in active duty personnel and in dependents. At that time the Navy loaned equipment to the city of Boston and made available medical department personnel to assist the civilian hospitals. Also, much reconstructive orthopedic surgery has been performed in naval hospitals on Navy dependents suffering residuals of polio and physio and occupational therapy have likewise been administered to these patients.

Dependent patients who have been returned to this country from overseas because of poliomyelitis are never refused interim hospitalization.

From the foregoing, I think it must be apparent that the Navy is not unmindful of dependents afflicted with poliomyelitis, but on the contrary, it does everything possible and within the scope of governing directives to assist such patients and to see that they are afforded the proper care. To say that "Service Polio Care is Marked by Confusion," is in my opinion, grossly in error and represents a most unjust appraisal of the professional efforts of the three military medical departments.

Sincerely yours,

B. W. HOGAN

SURGEON GENERAL, U. S. NAVY

Army Reorganization Goes Into Effect

The reorganization of the Army General Staff, resulting in the elimination of G-1 and G-3, went into effect on 3 January.

At the same time, the G-2 office was redesignated Assistant Chief of Staff, Intelligence.

Previously, G-4 had been abolished with the establishment of the Office of Deputy Chief of Staff for Logistics.

The new organization calls for five co-equal officers with Deputy Chief of Staff status under the Vice Chief of Staff and Chief of Staff.

They are:

Lt. Gen. Walter L. Weible, USA, Deputy Chief of Staff for Personnel.

Lt. Gen. Clyde D. Eddleman, USA, Deputy Chief of Staff for Military Operations.

Lt. Gen. Carter B. Magruder, USA, Deputy Chief of Staff for Logistics.

Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin, Chief of Research and Development.

Lt. Gen. Laurin L. Williams, USA, Comptroller.

Maj. Gen. Donald P. Booth, USA, who had been Assistant Chief of Staff, G-1, becomes Assistant Deputy Chief of Staff for Personnel under General Weible.

Maj. Gen. Thomas L. Sherburne, USA, who had been Deputy G-1, will serve as Assistant Deputy Chief of Staff for Operations, with another major general billet envisaged for an Assistant Deputy Chief of Staff for Plans and Policies. At present, this post is being filled by Brig. Gen. Albert Watson, II, USA. Brig. Gen. Joseph B. Crawford, USA, is serving as Director for Personnel Operations.

The former Assistant Chief of Staff, G-3, Maj. Gen. Paul D. Harkins, USA, becomes Assistant Deputy Chief of Staff for Military Operations under General Eddleman.

There will be two other Assistant Deputy Chiefs of Staff for Military Operations, Maj. Gen. J. S. Upham, USA, and Brig. Gen. R. L. Vittrup, USA, the latter of whom will be responsible for International Affairs.

The reorganization plan, intended by Army Secretary Wilber M. Brucker and General Maxwell D. Taylor, USA, Chief of Staff, to facilitate administration of the Army, will result in strengthening of the General Staff secretariat.

The new organization chart shows that under Brig. Gen. William C. Westmoreland, USA, who is directly responsible to General Williston B. Palmer, USA, Vice Chief of Staff, and to General Staff, there are three offices.

These are the Chief of the Coordinating Group, Brig. Gen. Loyal C. Matheny, USA; Chief of the Analysis Group, Col. Fred P. Campbell, USA; and Deputy Secretary of the General Staff, Col. Alexander D. Surles, USA.

3 Generations of Military Tailoring

High-Ranking Generals Retire In 1956, Many One- And Two-Star Officers Also

The Army will lose at least two four-star generals and two lieutenant generals by retirement in 1956. A total of more than 40 general officers likely will be retired under statutory provisions, according to an unofficial analysis.

February will see the retirement of General John E. Dahlquist, USA, head of the Continental Army Command at Ft. Monroe, Va. General J. Lawton Collins, USA, former Chief of Staff, is likely to end his active service in March.

General Collins is now U. S. Representative to the Military Committee and Standing Group of NATO. His successor is expected to be Lt. Gen. Leon W. Johnson, USAF, who had been head of the Continental Air Command, Mitchel AFB, N. Y.

Lt. Gen. John W. "Iron Mike" O'Daniel, USA, cited for his service as head of the U. S. military mission to Indo-China, is due to be retired at the end of this month. Next month will see another three-star officer, Lt. Gen. Floyd L. Parks, USA, retire as Commander of the Second Army at Ft. Meade, Md., where he will be replaced by Lt. Gen. Charles H. Hart, USA.

The following forecast of general officer retirements during 1956 does not include what will certainly be a considerable number of applications for voluntary retirement. Also, there is the prospect that some of the officers listed below, who now appear headed for retirement, will be retained on active duty.

However, most of the following generals will be leaving active service in 1956, probably in the month indicated:

40 Per Cent Red Cross Funds To Military

The Red Cross is devoting more than 40 per cent of its budgeted funds to Armed Forces personnel and veterans.

During the 1954-55 fiscal year, the 3171 chapters of the Red Cross expended a total of $87,539,503 in providing services to Americans and for humanitarian work overseas.

Of this total, $35,696,464, or 41 per cent,

went to veterans and members of the Armed Services.

This included $13,394,100 in emergency financial assistance in the form of grants and loans to servicemen, veterans and their dependents; field staff including recreation workers with the Armed Services around the world; help in solving more than 103,800 cases each month of personal and family problems; assistance monthly for 15,000 veterans or surviving dependents in applying for government benefits; assistance with communications between servicemen and their families; and constant activities carried out in 127 military and 176 VA hospitals.

KEEPING AN EYE ON THE IONOSPHERE

The F layer, 175 miles up, is a lively region. Crackling with geomagnetic activity and auroral phenomena, it will receive intensive study during the International Geophysical Year.

During IGY, in a series of Arctic launchings, Aerojet-General Aerobees will be the eyes of science. The world's most widely used research sounding rocket, the Aerobee carries aloft a payload of delicate measuring devices and parachutes them safely back for study.

A free-flight vehicle stabilized by fixed fins, the Aerobee is not subject to the many electro-mechanical difficulties of controlled missiles. High reliability and low cost have made it a favorite Service research tool since 1947.

BASIC TASK TOLD

"Upon assuming command of the Marine Corps as its 21st Commandant, I am certain that the men and women who have made our Corps the great military organization it is, will give me the same support they have given to General Shepherd in his memorable administration of the past four years. As we start this new year I think we should be mindful of the basic task which is ours as Marines.

"Let us remember that our Corps exists in response to this country's need for a hard hitting, fast moving combat organization, always alert and ready to undertake any assignment required in the nation's interest. In the years ahead this need will be as urgent as at any time in our history.

"I enter my term of office confident that I can rely on each of you to do your part to ensure that our Corps is ready for its task. Semper Fidelis.

A Road Map in the Sky

With Decca you fly with an amazing road map. Decca traces your flight on the moving Flight Log — a map of the terrain you are covering. As you taxi from the hangar . . . take off . . . circle . . . maneuver and land, Decca instantly traces every movement of the helicopter. You see exactly where you are and you fly — in any weather — a safe, positive course.

Decca is a long wave navigator system operating from a chain of master and slave stations located in a star pattern and covering an area of some 200,000 square miles. Unlike line-of-sight transmission, Decca provides low-flying helicopters with position-fixing accuracy down to ground level — among tall buildings — and behind hills.

Decca is the missing link in helicopter navigation.

Brig. Gen. Spicer, Who Missed Nazi Death Sentence, Takes Over As CofS At ATC

Brig. Gen. Henry R. Spicer, USAF, formerly Inspector General of the Air Training Command, has assumed his new post as ATC's Chief of Staff at Scott AFB, Ill.

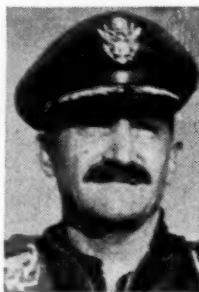

He succeeds Maj. Gen. Frank H. Robinson, USAF, who has been reassigned as Commander of the Crew Training Air Force, Randolph AFB, Tex. (see last week's JOURNAL, page 8).

General Spicer, who has flown virtually every operational type of jet in the Air Force and who made the shift from propeller to jet on the then new Lockheed F-80 Shooting Star early in 1947 without transitional training, is himself an old hand in the Training Command. In 1950 he commanded the new B-47 training wing at McConnell AFB, Kans. From there he stepped up to become Deputy Commander of the Crew Training Air Force at Randolph.

In September 1954 he was named ATC Inspector General, from which post he was almost constantly in the air visiting ATC's 42 bases in his specially marked North American F-86 Sabre Jet. Commanders in Texas, Arizona or California who talked to him on the telephone in the morning would see him across their desk in the afternoon.

It was largely through General Spicer's insistence that the Air Force began its experimentation at training bases with barriers at the end of runways. The first one installed, at Nellis AFB, Nev., already has saved a number of jet aircraft and pilots' lives.

General Spicer, who entered the Air Force in 1934 directly from an engineering course at the University of Arizona, has had a colorful career. In World War II he was credited with destroying three enemy aircraft in his first 14 missions in Europe. Then his P-51 was forced down in the English Channel by ground fire. After two days in a rubber dinghy, he drifted ashore on the French Coast with both feet frozen and was taken prisoner.

Brig. Gen. Spicer

It was two months before he could wear shoes but only six months before the Germans tried and convicted him of "inciting to riot" for a pep talk he gave his fellow prisoners at Barth, Germany. His sentence was six months solitary—and then death!

On the day his execution was scheduled Allied ground troops took the POW camp and liberated Spicer (then a colonel).

When the Berlin airlift became necessary, General Spicer was picked to lead the first jet combat wing of 84 Lockheed F-80s to Europe. With this fighter unit on hand no incidents arose to complicate the airlift.

Though still only 46 years old, General Spicer has piled up more than 7,000 hours in the air—1,800 of them in jets. He numbers among his decorations the Bronze Star, the Distinguished Flying Cross, the Air Medal with three Oak Leaf Clusters, the Purple Heart, and the French Croix-de-Guerre with Palm.

He lives at Scott AFB with his wife, the former Louise Leonard of San Antonio, and their four children, Tony 16, Rusty 13, Susan 10, and Randy 9.

Maj. Caraway to GOC

Maj. Joe W. Caraway, USAF, former Deputy Director, Office of Information Services, Headquarters, Air Defense Command, Ent AFB, Colo., has been named as the Ground Observer Corps State Coordinator for Oklahoma, where he will report 16 Jan.

In his additional duty as Chief, Internal Information Div., OIS, for the past 17 months, Major Caraway supervised the command base newspaper program to 100% participation by all units in ADC. At present, ADC boasts 163 unit newspapers and publications in the program.

A veteran of eight years' experience in public information work, Major Caraway is a journalism graduate of Oklahoma City University and a former editor of the largest weekly newspaper in Oklahoma.

May Get B-47 Task

A damaged B-47 Stratojet repaired in December at Hill AFB, Utah, may herald a SAC decision to use Hill more extensively for maintenance work on the long range medium jet bombers, according to officers at that base.

Col. Michael J. Coffield, USAF, Director of Maintenance Engineering, said some 80 personnel at Hill had been training in B-47 repair work in anticipation of supporting the SAC bombers.

He noted that several SAC bases are located within the Ogden Air Materiel Area, which includes Hill AFB, and that these SAC units eventually will be equipped with B-47's.

AF Building New Types Dining Halls

The Air Force has come up with two new types of dining hall designs for enlisted men and three new style units for officers.

The largest of the dining halls for enlisted men will accommodate up to 800 persons, while the small ones will be capable of feeding 400. The new types of officer dining rooms will seat 100, 240 and 400 personnel.

The 800-man dining hall will be one-story, T-shaped, and contain 13,400 square feet. The dishwashing room will be located at the front of the building to allow the men to leave their trays as they leave the building.

Furthermore, the building was planned to enable the men to wait in line in an enclosed area. All support columns in the dining hall have been eliminated, and will contain tile walls in the kitchen and dining area, tile floors and stainless steel for kitchen installations.

The 800-man units will cost approximately $250,000 each, while the 400-man halls will cost about $135,000.

During the current fiscal year, the Air Force plans to build 47 of the large dining halls and an undetermined number of the smaller dining halls.

AF Seeks Observers For Classes Starting In Feb.

The Air Force is urging both active and inactive officers to apply for aircraft observer training in grade.

New applicants will begin enrollment in February for the year-long basic observer course taught at Ellington AFB, and Harlingen AFB, Tex., with classes beginning every two weeks.

After graduation, the aircraft observers will go to Mather AFB, Calif., James Connally AFB, Tex. or Keesler AFB, Miss., for advance training or will be assigned to a flying unit as a navigator.

Interested officers will find application procedures in AFR 51-4.

C-123 TURBOJET COMBINATION PROVES OUTSTANDING

MISSION: Combat Test Problem
WEIGHT: 13,000 lbs. Overload
TAKEOFF CONDITION: Power Failure
RESULTS: Successful

In a recent test for the U. S. Air Force, the Fairchild C-123 proved the value of thrust assist in meeting emergency single engine conditions!

A C-123 was equipped with two Fairchild J-44 jet engines and loaded to achieve gross weight of 66,742 pounds — 13,000 pounds overload.

During takeoff and climb, both jets were operated to provide 2,000 pounds continuous thrust in addition to the two piston engines. At 2,708 feet, wheels were off the ground, and a moment later at a speed of 122 knots, one propeller was feathered!

From this takeoff position, the C-123 climbed out at 500 feet per minute — proving again its big job capability and assault versatility, heightened by jet augmentation to give extra power and extra safety in any emergency.

Family Life and Pay. There were no great surprises in the conclusions, released this week, of the study made by Princeton's Public Opinion Surveys (Gallup poll) into the attitudes of young men toward the military service as a career. All of the Services knew from their own experience that there has been no rush of youth for careers in the Armed Forces. In fact, the constant turnover, with its costly and continuous program to train replacements, has been their most vexing problem.

The poll confirmed, too, what Service leaders have long been saying—that the main reasons why officers and enlisted men keep leaving the Services are "greater opportunities to advance in civilian life, lack of adequate family life, and inadequate financial rewards."

The poll showed that "by a ratio of 5-to-3, male teen-agers think a man is financially better off in civilian life than in military life." Further, opinion in both teen-agers and adults ran almost 3-to-1 that a man should be paid more in the Armed Services than for the same job in civilian life. Yet every study made in the past by either military or civilian groups has demonstrated that pay is greater in civilian jobs than in the Services and that this disparity increases as the ranks and grades go upward. This can only mean to the youth that he will become comparably less well off as he wins advancement in the military than if he were in a civilian pursuit.

Lack of adequate family life, the other principal deterrent to attracting youth to the Services, can be traced to inadequate and expensive housing, to long separations when the man is transferred overseas or to other areas where housing is short, to frequent transfers and consequent disruption of schooling and other phases of family stability, to the inadequacy of family medical and dental care, and to the lack of a comprehensive survivors' benefits system.

All of these can be corrected or ameliorated. The modest increase in pay granted last year already has paid for itself in lowered training costs, at least as far as the Air Force is concerned. (See THE JOURNAL, 26 Nov. '55). But a more substantial increase is necessary if more men are to be attracted and retained. The other shortcomings, too, require legislation and the active support of the Administration. The new poll has shown definitely that these are genuine needs.

Another pointed conclusion of the poll states: "The importance of an effective public relations program designed to foster, among those in the service, favorable attitudes toward the military service is indicated. The survey reveals that young men base their attitudes toward military service more on reports from people who are or have been in the service than on any other source of information."

Thus if the lot of those in the Services is improved and they are encouraged to talk about it, more candidates will be attracted and defense and the nation will benefit.

Now Retired Officers Are "Sought." The Department of Labor's action in having its Bureau of Employment Security undertake a program for seeking out retired officers and other former Armed Forces personnel to fill some of the hundreds of vacant teaching positions in the nation's secondary schools is most commendable (Story First Page).

There must be literally thousands of retired service personnel skilled in mathematics and sciences who would make excellent teachers. Certainly, anyone who has served a career in one of the military services must have attended a number of service schools and many of them have had experience teaching in them.

The ironical twist is that here we have an agency of the Federal government recognizing the special qualifications of retired service officers and actively working to get them placed in the school systems of the various states. Yet the Federal government itself has erected formidable barriers to keep the majority of such officers from its own employment.

The Act of 1894 says that retired officers may not accept Federal civilian jobs where the retired pay or the civilian position amounts to $2,500 or more unless it is an elected office or appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate or unless the officer was retired for battle injuries or disability incurred in line of duty. Furthermore, the economy act of 1932, as amended last year, provides that even those permitted Federal employment by the 1894 act may not draw more than $10,000 in combined retired and civilian pay.

The result is that hundreds of qualified officers are kept from Federal jobs they could fill efficiently and honorably. They are barred by the same Federal government which is now seeking to find them jobs in the States.

Both the House Armed Services Committee and the Civil Service Commission are studying this problem. Some action may be expected at this session. We hope both of these restrictive laws will be repealed and retired officers placed on a par with others in the matter of filling Federal government positions.

IN THE JOURNAL

10 Years Ago—Use of the fateful Kamikaze plane was not exclusively a Japanese prerogative during World War II, but would also have become a German weapon had the Allies not gained victory in Europe when they did, it was learned this week. According to a report from the Air Division, Headquarters U. S. Forces in Austria, Air Interrogation Unit, German development of a Kamikaze plane was completed and ready for use when the Allies stormed the streets of Berlin. It was never used, however, because of the inability of its promoters to sell the idea to the high command.

50 Years Ago—Secretary of the Navy Bonaparte has under consideration several important changes in Naval Regulations. With a view to providing the Navy with an efficient and trained class of officers to perform engineering duty, Secretary Bonaparte this week introduced in Congress a bill providing for the establishment in the Navy of a Corps of Marine Engineers, for shore duty only. He proposes to amend the Regulations so that it will be mandatory that every junior officer in the Service serve a tour of duty in the engine room before promotion.

90 Years Ago—It is possible that a bill will be introduced into Congress to pay prize money to the fleets which took part in the reduction of New Orleans. This bill would call for the nice little sum of $11,000,000, and the squadron of Farragut and the mortar-flotilla of Porter would divide it between them.

Medical Promotions?

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

It was with considerable amusement (and sympathy) that I read "Medical Promotion Problem" by "Lt Col., Inf" in THE JOURNAL, 17 Dec 55. His is a sad predicament—but many of my contemporaries, physicians in the Regular Army and Air Force, feel that he has little need for worry.

My situation is fairly typical, and not at all unusual, of close to a hundred medical officers now in the Regular Service. "Lt Col., Inf" complained that he had to command a battalion in World War II as a Major. I commanded a tank battalion as a captain in combat in Europe. I attended medical school after WW II. Interned in the Army and was sent to Korea where I commanded a medical battalion as a captain, for which service I was awarded a Legion of Merit. This was followed by a tour of duty in a staff medical officer slot that calls for a Colonel, MC. This was all a couple of years ago and I'm still a captain despite being on an approved promotion list for over a year and a half. I'll soon be 36, have three children, and over ten years active service as an officer. I've been overseas in a combat zone twice for some three years and have five combat decorations, yet I am told by personnel officers that I lack enough experience for promotion. We were encouraged to intern in the service and to join the regular service with the assurance that our previous line experience would be a benefit to the service and to us; needless to say, most of us are beginning to have our doubts.

I should like to make it clear that I have no regret for my experience in the service. I could not have had a better internship or residency training. But, in regard to staying in the service when there is no consideration for our value as an Officer, that is another matter.

I hope "Lt Col., Inf" isn't held back because of some medical officer. Medical officers would like a separate promotion plan but we understand the combined list is a line idea. At the rate resignations from the medical corps are going perhaps "Lt Col., Inf" will not have a serious problem. There won't be enough medical officers left to make any difference in his promotion list.

CAPT., MEDICAL CORPS

The Hardy Bill

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

We service families who live in Washington, D. C., are much more cognizant of what goes on "on the Hill" than the service who are scattered throughout the United States, Hawaii and the world.

I want to call to the attention of the readers of your magazine that the Veterans Service Benefit Act—the Hardy Bill—was passed before the House of Representatives on 15 July, 1955. This Bill, H. R. 7089 is pending in the Senate finance committee—under chairmanship of Senator H. F. Byrd, Virginia and should come on the floor of the Senate, January 1956.

This bill—which provides a complete change in service connected deaths—compensation benefits for Armed Forces personnel—IS for the service the most important legislation of this or any other Session. The Hardy Bill was formulated under the Department of Defense—after eight months of investigating the outmoded and inadequate pension system now in effect.

We survivors, and future survivors, who have existed many years—on a most limited pension—$59.00 for an admiral and general's widow—have need to see that our Senators and our friends' Senators—support this bill, which will benefit service widows, dependent parents and children.

The personnel of the service will have higher morale if they know they have security for their dependents while they are giving their all to keep these United States "the land of the free and the home of the brave."

40,000 Soldiers, Families, Pets and Belongings Shift in Divisional Gyroscope

FT. RILEY, KANS.

MOVING more than 40,000 U. S. soldiers, their families, their pets and their personal belongings some 5,000 miles over land and ocean is a feat in itself. That is what "Operation Gyroscope" accomplished for two infantry Divisions, the 1st and the 10th.

It was these two units who made the first historic switch in the Department of the Army's bold new division unit rotation plan, a plan which was designed to help the professional soldier by providing a better means of doing his job—a permanent military unit assignment, a known stateside location and a better family life.

The Gyroscope plan was announced in October 1954, and shortly thereafter the 1st and 10th Divisions knew they were to participate in the gigantic move.

"... INTENSIVE RE-ENLISTMENT DRIVES netted 1,185 men for permanent assignment with the Red One during a 90-day period. This shows the high appeal the Gyroscope Plan has, when compared to the average 120-150 enlistments in previous similar periods."

The 1st was scattered throughout an area of responsibility between the Iron Curtain and the Rhine in Bavaria, West Germany, while the 10th was located at historic Ft. Riley, Kans. For the Big Red One it was a homecoming, since for the past 13 years it had served on foreign soil. And the newly reactivated 10th Division was back on its way overseas. It had left the European theater at the end of World War II, where it had distinguished itself in the Italian campaigns. The 1st is well known. Its beachheads in North Africa, Sicily and Normandy were highlights of its 443 days of combat in World War II.

With Gyroscope came new problems. It was to be a concurrent movement: soldiers traveling with their dependents. At the same time, it was vital that the 1st Division's mission in Seventh Army, United States Army, Europe, never become jeopardized by the movement.

Briefly this was the plan: the two divisions would exchange stations; the 1st would leave its Bavarian caserns to the 10th and take over the reins at Ft. Riley. Every 31 to 33 months the operation is to be repeated. The 1st will again go overseas while the 10th will return to Ft. Riley. The Regular Army man will stay with his unit.

The rotation was accomplished in three increments of Regimental Combat Teams plus elements of the separate units of the Division, spaced two months apart. One reason for the spacing was to eliminate unforeseen "bugs" which might occur at the last moment, but primarily it was to keep up the combat effectiveness of the overseas unit. At no time during the move was the effectiveness of the overseas unit in doubt. Change of command ceremonies took place frequently on German soil. As soon as the arriving 10th Division unit had the majority of troops, it took command. These units were attached to the 1st Infantry Division, until 27 Sept. 1955. On that date, the 10th Division took over in Europe and the 1st Division took over at Ft. Riley.

Exchange Advance Parties

Advance parties were exchanged by both units. This was to allow time for incoming units to familiarize themselves with their new terrain and missions and to accomplish the turnover of property. These advance parties moved by air with their dependents. They were instrumental in keeping the division overseas constantly combat ready. Their role was important. Advance parties arrived some two months prior to the arrival of their parent unit. Exchanges were made to include at least one officer and several enlisted personnel in each staff section and unit down to the company.

The advance parties were there to learn, and what they learned they would pass on. Complete details of operation in Germany with the other NATO countries, even down to the points of social life in a European country, were explained. Perhaps the most useful item was the "tricks of the trade" everyone in the 1st Division was directed to pass on to his successor in the 10th, informal notes of the military operation in Europe which is different than that in the States and which was learned through experience. This paid dividends.

With the advance parties in, the big problem remained: Moving the majority of the troops, their goods and families. The cooperation of post units—and especially for the 1st Division, Northern Area Command—played an important role in the move.

"... SPONSORS OF EXPECTANT MOTHERS were re-assigned so they could move prior to the critical period by ship. If this proved impracticable, they were flown home with their sponsors. There were about 350 such cases..."

A Brief of the Movement

Here is a brief of the movement:

Four ships, spaced about a week's sailing time apart, crossed the Atlantic bringing 10th Division troops and dependents in each increment. Their automobiles and household goods, in most cases, were to arrive a few weeks later.

Before the 10th Division ships docked, 1st Division families had traveled to the Bremerhaven Port of Em-

GYRO-BIKE — Young Linda Schlipstein crawls up in a truck to make sure her bicycle will ride all right as its starts its "Operation Gyroscope" rotation to Ft. Riley, Kans., from Wuerzburg, Germany. Mrs. Muriel Schlipstein, whose husband is a supply sergeant for 1st Division Artillery Headquarters, watches the last of her household goods leave. The Schlipsteins followed the bicycle about four weeks later.

"... TO BIG RED ONE families rotating to Fort Riley, only enough on-post quarters to house about 20 per cent are available. This created a critical housing shortage which continues to exist. The work being done to solve this problem in conjunction with civic officials is progressing but very slowly..."

barkation where they were quartered. With complete individual gear, the 10th Division troops marched down the gangplanks to the waiting trains. Their families moved directly to separate trains. They were separated from their husbands and fathers for a little over twelve hours on the rail move from Bremerhaven to their home stations in Bavaria. It was the only time in the journey the 10th Division family was split.

When the troop trains arrived at their home station's "Bahnhof" (railroad station), special carriers took the troops immediately to their quarters. They moved in and immediately began to replace 1st Division troops. Here the advance parties played their biggest roles. Officers and men from the 10th were already on hand. They knew the lay of the land and the local situation.

Families Arrive

A few hours later the 10th Division family trains arrived. They were greeted by the joint 1st Division-Northern Area Command "Operation Welcome," an outgrowth of the "Gyroscope." Met at the trains by 1st Division soldiers, they were escorted directly to their new apartments: clean rooms, sheets on the beds, property ready to be signed for, and even food in the pantries and refrigerators. The food was ordered by the wife prior to her leaving the states and charged to her commissary bill. Privilege passes—commissary cards, cigarette ration cards and others—were ready and waiting. Many wives also found maids, previously employed by the 1st Division families, ready to be hired. It was simple and sincere—"Operation Welcome." No big rush to get settled. The family was "at home" when it arrived.

Some 12 hours after the first 10th Division troop train arrived the 1st Division soldiers boarded the same trains and went on to Bremerhaven. Arriving there the next morning, the 1st Division troops were embarked directly from the trains which brought them. The special Gyro-trains halted a few yards from the gangplanks, making the boarding an easily controlled and rapid process.

The women and children already at Bremerhaven followed without delay and joined their 1st Division sponsors aboard ship. The average time to embark troops and families was three hours.

Navy Liked Plan

The Navy liked Gyroscope because the movement facilitated the handling of troops and families aboard ship through the already established chain of command. The effectiveness was shown even in the lifeboat drills, where record times were set for troops moving to their stations.

Once the 1st Division's ships docked at New York, the next Gyroscope phase was to begin: the trek to Ft. Riley. Units and a few dependents moved by rail. They boarded trains which were standing by as the ships docked. Many picked up their private automobiles and drove with their families to Ft. Riley. Others were carried to railroad stations or overnight quarters if they planned to remain in New York for the day. Fifty per cent of each increment received leave.

During the move, approximately 6,500 men were dropped for separation at New York. More than 4,000 of these were inductees who had less than 90 days to serve.

Behind the scenes, the problems for the Army started early. Gyroscope experts from the Department of the Army visited the two commands while staff groups from the Divisions surveyed their new stations.

"... TO MOVE THE MEN, women and children and 350 pets—dogs, cats, birds and even a pair of monkeys—required 154 special ten-car trains in Europe and for the advance parties, 30 transatlantic special flights..."

G-1 Has Gyro Office

The 1st Division formed a central Gyroscope Office, and because the move was primarily a personnel matter largely affecting morale, it was organized and directed by G-1.

The exact number of men, family status, amount of household baggage, number of pets and the health of the families had to be determined. "Operation Baby Carriage" grew from part of this. Sponsors of expectant mothers were reassigned so they could move prior to the critical period by ship. If this proved impracticable, they were

THE 78-PAGE "OPERATION GYROSCOPE" Rotation Directive is assembled in the 1st Infantry Division G-1 (Personnel) office. Containing all information concerning the 1st Division's part in the Operation, 650 copies of the book were distributed throughout the Division and to the Department of the Army. Working on the last copies are (left to right) SFC James L. Keating, Sergeant Robert L. Echard, and Corporal John R. Schneider.

MEMO For Journal Readers

STEPPED-UP MISSILE WORK at the Army's Redstone Arsenal at Huntsville, Ala., is reflected in a 6 million increase in payrolls during '55, with a further expansion set for '56. Apparently as a result of a scientific "break-through," SecDef Wilson has authorized an intensified missile and rocket development program at Redstone. Current payroll level is $40 million per year.

THE MARINE CORPS COMMANDANT'S post has been put on a par with the other JCS billets in the matter of tenure. General McPate's appointment is for 2 years; his predecessor, General Shepherd, had been named for a 4-year tour.

MILITARY MOBILITY EMPHASIS is being carried over into Post Exchange operations. Field tests have begun on two PX mobiles, one with a cab over the engine, the other with the conventional set back cab. In the U.S., there are now about 200 rolling PX's, which are used in isolated areas, during maneuvers, and for men on flight lines. This number probably will increase with expansion of scattered air defense units.

A STRENGTHENED CHEMICAL CORPS to work on problems relating to CBR warfare will result from organization changes being crystallized by Maj. Gen. William M. Creasy, USA, Chief Chemical Officer. He has named Brig. Gen. William R. Currie, USA, a former Special Assistant, to be Asst. Chief Chemical Officer for Planning and Doctrine, with broad powers to direct long-range studies involving chemical, biological and radiological warfare.

AN ENGINEERING COMMAND has been activated at the Army Chemical Center, Md., under Col. William J. Allen, Jr., USA, formerly head of the Engineering Agency. Other Chemical Corps changes will be announced shortly.

DIET CAMPAIGNS in the Air Force have created a weighty "paper work" problem. Some Air Force personnel have been invited or "directed" to eat as many meals as possible in the hospital mess at various bases in order to assure consumption of a proper diet. This has raised the question of whether each meal should be tabbed as "an outpatient treatment." The Surgeon General has ruled in the negative. He advises that only consultations with medical officers to determine dietary requirements should be counted as treatments.

ARMY TACTICIANS have decided it will be better to have two-thirds of three regiments than two full regiments in the famed 1st Cavalry Division, now in Japan. It had been announced that the 7th Cavalry would be reduced to token size, with the 5th and 7th to be kept at full strength. A CHANGE IN PLANS will maintain the three regiments on an equal basis.

ARMY SEC'Y BRUCKER went out of his way this week to insure that a medal presentation ceremony for three soldiers commanded top-drawer attention. He pinned the Soldier's Medal on PFC. Reginald A. Layoff, Jr., Sp3c. Peter P. Tamburin and Sp3c. Hugo W. Weiss before an audience which included Gen. Taylor, CofS, senior General Staff officers, and a group of legislators. It was one of the most colorful ceremonies of its kind at the Pentagon during recent months. THE SECRETARY'S INTEREST in providing "prompt and timely" recognition for heroism undoubtedly played a part in the speedy processing of the awards. The heroism by the three soldiers was performed on 18 Nov. 1955 near Seattle, Wash., when a civilian plane in which the soldiers were passengers crashed and burned. Said Secretary Brucker: "Our country would be in a sorry state if the time ever comes when we can't drop the tools of our work and take time off from our duties to recognize heroism."

APPROXIMATELY TWO DOZEN male nurses have been commissioned in the Army and Air Force; the Navy has said it does not intend at present to use authority in legislation voted last year to make such appointments. IN A RELATED MOVE, the Air Force has just changed the name of its Women's Medical Specialist Corps to the Medical Specialist Corps and said men would be commissioned as dietitians and therapists. The Army had taken this action previously. IT'S A CASE where men now are being given equal opportunity with women in obtaining military commissions.

AFTER LONG INTERNAL DEBATE, the Army decided to retain the "Assistant Chief of Staff, Intelligence" designation in the new General Staff organization, although the term "G-2" will be dropped. Some contended that the "Assistant" prefix would take away from the prestige of the job, since the G's were being replaced by Deputy Chiefs of Staff. The titles "Chief of Intelligence" and "Director of Intelligence" were considered. BUT AT THE END, the Assistant CofS designation was retained, the thought being that it shows an immediate responsibility to the Chief of Staff.

THE AIR FORCE WINDS UP its fiscal '56 temporary promotion program for officers next week when about 300 lieutenant colonels selected for colonel are announced. The Air Force commands a jealousy among all the other Services for its ability to tell selected officers the exact date on which their advancements will become effective. In the other Services, the usual procedure is to state that promotions will be made "as vacancies occur."

PENTAGON PERSONNEL EXPERTS say that chances are at least 50-50 for passage of legislation which will permit appointment of thousands of Regular officers in the Army and Air Force from among Reservists now on active duty. SecDef Wilson thinks these Services, like the Navy and Marine Corps, should have about half their officer strength in the Regular establishment. THIS OBJECTIVE would require appointment of roughly 50,000 Regular officers over the next five years or so, the extended expansion period being essential to prevent promotion list "humps." THE AIR FORCE IS COUNTING on the proposed legislation to ease its Regular promotion list bulge; unless this problem is solved, many fine officers will be threatened with curtailed careers.

A NEW PUBLICATION, possibly to be called "Airman," is under consideration by the Air Force. It would be along the general lines of the Navy's "All Hands"; that is an internal monthly publication which would be distributed on a basis of about 1 for each 10 men. This would mean a press run of approximately 100,000 copies. AT ONE TIME, former AF Sec'y Harold E. Talbott was set to announce such a publication, but it was held up at the last moment. AF Sec'y Donald A. Quarles is expected to make a final decision on the project when he returns in mid-month from a trip to the Pacific.

THE SENATE ARMED SERVICES COMMITTEE late this month will review the number of general and flag officers on duty in the Armed Services. Scores of recess appointments to these ranks, made while Congress was not in session, will be sent to the Capitol in the next weeks for confirmation by the Senate. IT IS NOTEWORTHY that President Eisenhower approved a number of recess promotions during December—even as late as 1 Jan. In the past, there has been a reluctance to make new admirals and generals on a recess basis on the eve of a new Congress.

Many service personnel realize that investment in securities can be one way of reaching their retirement target more quickly than by letting their surplus savings lie idle. But they also realize that the selection and management of securities is a full-time job.

Some have learned, however, that planned purchases of dividend paying securities through Mutual Fund shares, while subject to normal investment risk, solves the problems of seeking more income, of selection and supervision. Mutual Funds represent a share in a large number of carefully selected securities which are continuously supervised by professionals whose full-time job it is to make day to day investment decisions.

Thousands of service personnel and civilians have been helped with their retirement problems through Brown, Madeira & Co.'s aid in the selection and purchase of Mutual Fund shares in the manner best suited to their special needs. This counsel is available to you, too.

Send a postcard today for our new free BOOKLET containing detailed information on the Mutual Fund method of investing . . . the modern way to invest.

USAA
SAVINGS EXCEED

ON AUTOMOBILE INSURANCE

Sounds like a big saving on standard automobile insurance . . . and it is.

Almost six million dollars were paid in dividends last year to USAA members on 282,843 policies. During its 33 years over 75 million dollars have been paid out in claims and returned in savings on policies.

Last year USAA automobile policyholders located in the States saved 44% of the standard manual premiums.

USAA was organized in 1922 by Army officers as a non-profit organization to make available automobile insurance at cost. The company has always been managed by active and retired officers of the Armed Forces.

USAA dividends are liberal because losses are kept down. Membership is open to active and retired commissioned and warrant officers of the U.S. Armed Forces . . . a preferred risk group.

USAA dividends are liberal because operating costs are kept down. Selling is done by mail. There are no agents' commissions to pay, or branch office overhead to meet.

Each year more and more Armed Forces officers turn to USAA for automobile and household effects insurance. Nearly 25% more policies were in force in 1954 than in the previous year.

USAA has enjoyed a healthy growth since it was established. Today it is the oldest, largest and strongest non-profit organization serving officers of the U.S. Armed Forces with automobile insurance.

USAA operates in the United States, its possessions and territories; Canada, Cuba and the Canal Zone; Japan, the Philippines, and certain U.S. military bases in the Pacific, as well as in Western Continental Europe. Claims are settled promptly even in the most out-of-the way places.

When its time to insure . . . insure with confidence . . . give yourself the best, and save, too. Insure with USAA!

USAA policies are sold by mail. For information on how USAA can serve you, fill in and mail coupon. No matter whether you're stateside, overseas or on orders, USAA is as close as your nearest mailbox, telephone or telegraph office. Your USAA insurance becomes effective as of postmarked time of application, unless a later date is specified.

40,000 U.S.-Europe In Divisional Gyro

flown home with their sponsors. There were about 350 such cases.

Equipment serviceability and shortages were found and corrected through technical inspections coordinated by Seventh Army, V Corps and the 1st Division.

Intensive re-enlistment drives netted 1,185 men for permanent assignment with the Big Red One during a 90-day period. This shows the high appeal the Gyroscopic Plan has, when compared to the average 120-150 enlistments in previous similar periods. An additional 3,500 men, not yet eligible for discharge, expressed their written desire to re-enlist and remain with the Division upon completion of their present enlistment.

Directive Took 78 Pages

A 78-page directive compiled by the 1st Division for its unit's guidance was published and issued to unit commanders about 90 days prior to their departure. This directive provided instructions for all aspects of the move, including such items as pets, transfer of unit funds, the use of European license plates in each of the states, and the pre-rotation training requirements.

The 1st Division's eight million pounds of household goods and 3,200,000 pounds of hold baggage were an enormous project for the sub-areas under Northern Area Command's direction. The only items not moved were TO&E equipment and unit fund property which was surveyed and exchanged by company-size units. There were exceptions. Individual weapons and some unit fund property of historical or public information value were rotated.

To move the men, women and children and 350 pet—dogs, cats, birds and even a pair of monkeys—required 154 special ten-car trains in Europe and for the advance parties, 30 transatlantic special flights. Enough paper to fill the G-1's office from wall to wall, carpet to ceiling, was necessary for the more than 250,000 copies of the two-page movement orders. Each individual needed 35 copies. Copies of orders had to be attached to household goods, hold baggage, automobiles, and duty-free postal parcels. The finance office needed copies and copies had to be presented for entry into the United States.

“... The Gyroscopic plan improves the Army's overall combat posture. We must protect it and insure its permanence...”
—Gen. Meloy

Change Children's School Schedules

Although the children might not have appreciated it then, special Summer school classes were held so students could Gyroscopic without falling behind in their studies.

With the speed-up moving plans of Gyroscopic, some 500 1st Division men had to rush the papers for accomplishing their marriage to German girls.

However, with all the planning, some 1st Division problems remain.

In Germany families for ranks and grades above E-4 found quarters available. To Big Red One families rotating to Fort Riley, only enough on-post quarters to house about 20 per cent are available. This created a critical housing shortage which continues to exist. The work being done to solve this problem in conjunction with civic officials is progressing but very slowly.

Yet to most, Gyroscopic provided them the opportunity to remain with their units and have a sense of belonging. Concurrent travel had a tremendous appeal. And unlike most moves, families knew where they were going ten months prior to packing. They moved with their 1st Division friends and are with these same friends now. Most important, the troops like Gyroscopic.

One of the Army's Finest Plans

Maj. Gen. G. S. Meloy, Jr., 1st Division Commanding General, said “Operation Gyroscopic” is one of the finest plans the Army has yet developed for troop rotation in peacetime.

“It particularly benefits the soldier with dependents,” he said. “When the housing problems are solved at the Army Posts, then Gyroscopic will be at its best.”

General Meloy, who was with the Division when Gyroscopic started and until the end, said “The potential for expanding combat effectiveness by retaining a Regular Army NCO mobilization base with unit esprit, leadership and know-how will be extremely high with Gyroscopic.”

“The Gyroscopic plan improves the Army's over-all combat posture. We must protect it and insure its permanence. Any trifling with the concept soon brings the entire plan into disrepute with the very men we hope to retain permanently in our units—the NCO leader and enlisted specialist, the backbone of the Army.”

On 9 Dec. 1955, the 1st Division's final special Gyro-train arrived at Camp Funston, Ft. Riley. It marked the completion of the 1st Division's movement to the United States and the successful establishment of a new era in Army unit movements.

New Benefits Told For Totally Disabled

The following is the text of a statement issued on 1 January by the Social Security Administration, which describes increased benefits available to totally disabled veterans.

Many totally disabled veterans may lose out on the higher benefits that could be paid to them or their families in the future if they do not apply to have their social security earnings records frozen under the law's disability freeze provision. Fewer veterans have applied than the Social Security Administration thinks can qualify under the new provision.

You can qualify for the disability freeze if you're so disabled that you cannot do any substantial gainful work and also meet the following conditions:

1. Had worked under social security for five out of the ten years before you were disabled, including half of the three years immediately preceding your disability (active military service after September 1910 and work under the Railroad Retirement Act count under this requirement);
2. Have been disabled at least 6 months; if you're over 65, the disability must have started at least 6 months before you were 65 and still be in existence, and
3. Your disabling condition, whether physical or mental, is one that is expected to last indefinitely or to result in death.

Someone else should apply for the freeze on behalf of a disabled person, if he cannot apply himself. His family cannot benefit from the freeze if he dies before application is made.

The purpose of the disability freeze is to protect the social security rights of disabled workers and their families—it does not provide for benefit payments before the worker is 65 or before his death.

Benefits can be considerably higher because of the disability freeze—up to $10 a month and more if the worker was disabled a long time before age 65. For many young people, the freeze—if applied for—means benefits will be payable at age 65 or after their death even though they don't work the 10 years under social security that would otherwise be required to qualify for benefits.

Older people already drawing benefits may get an increase beginning with their benefits for July of this year if they qualify for the freeze and apply for it before July 1957.

Younger people who first became disabled some time ago may have their social security records frozen as of the time they first became disabled if they apply for the disability freeze before July 1957. If they delay past that time, their records can be frozen for only one year back of the time they apply. If they were disabled before October 1941, and unable to work after that date, however, they cannot qualify; they could not have worked five years under social security before that date.

FIND OUT IF YOU QUALIFY: You can find out if you qualify for the disability freeze by filling out the inquiry form below. If your answer to the first two questions is "yes," fill it out promptly, cut it out and mail it to the nearest social security office. They will notify you whether you meet the length of work requirement and advise what you should do next.

If you cannot answer "yes" to each of the first two questions, you probably cannot qualify for the freeze. If in doubt, ask the social security office.

Teaching Posts Open For Hundreds

The Retired Officers Association are co-operating by advising ex-Armed Services men and women and those being retired of the opportunities open to them in the teaching profession.

Local Public Employment Service offices steer the applications to appropriate school authorities.

The persistent demand for teachers in the high schools of most States is a part of the general shortage of specialized workers throughout the Country, according to the Labor Department. Shortages are particularly critical in science, mathematics, industrial arts, and commercial courses.

At present, there are about 375,000 teachers employed in the nation's high schools.

The Labor Department's statistical offices have not been able to come up with the exact number of positions open to retired men and women. It is pointed out that such a figure can not be arrived at since many schools are operating with temporary teachers.

While the program is not yet in full swing, the Labor Department told THE JOURNAL that in the majority of cases retired officers will experience little difficulty in obtaining temporary certifications permitting them to teach in secondary schools. In some cases, however, retired Armed Forces men and women will be required to meet local regulations.

In a few cases, it may be necessary for former officers and men to take additional courses before they will be permitted to teach.

INDUSTRY IN DEFENSE

Lockheed Jet Trainer T2V-1 Named SeaStar

SeaStar is the name officially approved by the U. S. Navy for its T2V-1 jet trainer, which has started to roll off Lockheed Aircraft Corporation assembly lines.

The name was selected in a company-wide employee contest, won by Oscar E. Brandt, engineer who helped design the SeaStar.

The SeaStar is the first production airplane to take to the air in the Navy's new two-toned, orange-and-white paint design.

Boundary layer control, which blows compressed air over certain control surfaces of the wing to improve lift and controllability, is introduced as a standard feature on the T2V-1. With it, the SeaStar can ease onto a carrier deck at 97 m.p.h., a lower speed than for any other jet.

The SeaStar has a new cockpit arrangement with an elevated rear seat, raised 6 inches above the front seat to afford closer student-instructor liaison.

Now in quantity production at Lockheed's Burbank and Palmdale plants, the T2V-1 is scheduled for delivery to the fleet this Fall to begin carrier tests.

FAST PLANES FOR MATS

A new Lockheed Super Constellation, the YC-121F that can cruise at 420 miles an hour has been delivered to the Air Force at Edwards AFB, Calif. A second plane is being flight tested and will be delivered to the Air Force later.

Equipped with four Pratt & Whitney T-34 engines delivering 22,800 total horsepower, the jet-and-propeller Super Constellation can fly 16 tons nonstop across the United States in less than seven hours.

Its load capabilities include 106 passengers, 18 tons of cargo or 73 litter patients. Present plans call for the Air Force to conduct a crew training program at Edwards AFB prior to assigning the new aircraft to MATS for operational use.

1706th ATG Flies Patients 9 Million Miles In U.S.

The 1706th Air Transport Group (Air Evac) at Brooks AFB, Tex., provided air transportation for more than 40,000 patients of the three services and a number of emergency civilian cases during 1955. The Group flew more than 9 million miles within the United States. In addition to the 40,000 patients, air transport was provided for more than 1200 critically injured persons.

Since 1953, one of the 1706th Group's flying hospital wards has taken off or landed at one of more than 350 air fields throughout the country every nine minutes. The group services more than 400 hospitals.

The 1706th operates five squadrons throughout the United States. Three of these units, at Travis AFB, Calif., Brookley AFB, Ala., and McGuire AFB, N. J., are aerial ports of embarkation where overseas patients are received and fed into the aeromedical system in this country.

The other two squadrons are located at Scott AFB, Ill., and Brooks AFB, Tex. The squadron located at Brooks is the marshalling point for transcontinental movement of patients, and provides services to the network of military medical facilities in the Southwest. The Scott AFB's squadron is a distribution unit, essentially, located approximately in the population center of the country. This unit provides aerial distribution of patients to hospitals of final destination.

L-19 Order Placed

The Cessna Aircraft Company of Wichita, Kans., has received a $2½-million letter contract to build 230 L-19 aircraft with deliveries to begin next December. Deliveries on a previous contract calling for 100 L-19's start this spring.

Assignment and Data Cards

A check of Headquarters' records reveals that many officers do not have a current Form CG-3121 (Officer Assignment Card) on file.

Failure to submit the form, or keep it current, Headquarters states, complicates the assignment of officers and could work to their disadvantage. It is not necessary that Forms CG-3121 and CG-3292 be submitted on the first of each calendar year; both forms, however, should be submitted at the same time by each officer upon arrival at a new permanent station or when it is necessary to report a significant change of information.

Delinquent officers should take immediate steps to bring their files up to date, Headquarters says.

A new form, superseding and combining the two forms is being developed and is expected to be placed into effect before 1 July.

Congress Launches Inquiries Of Military Reserve, Buying And Real Estate Programs

Three Congressional investigations of the military were triggered this week as the new Congress returned to Washington under full steam.

The probes—two of which got underway this week, and a third which will open on 10 January—are delving into the new military Reserve plan, Pentagon procurement policies and the Defense Department's real estate holdings.

Chairman Overton Brooks (D-La.) of the House Armed Services Subcommittee on Reserve matters, opened hearings on 5 January by calling Assistant Secretary of Defense Carter L. Burgess. Mr. Brooks said he was "far from satisfied" with the way the Pentagon has put the new Reserve law to work.

The Chairman added that he also intended to press for legislation which will raise the pay of the six months Reserve trainees. The trainees currently receive $50 per month, compared with $78 per month which goes to National Guard trainees and draftees.

The full Armed Services Committee Chairman, Representative Carl Vinson (D-Ga.) introduced legislation (HR 7995) which will take away the Defense Department's authority to let negotiated contracts. He will call the Committee into session on 10 January to look into the Pentagon's administration of the Armed Services Procurement Act.

Earlier, Chairman Vinson declared (THE JOURNAL, 24 Dec.) that his Investigation Subcommittee headed by Representative F. Edward Hebert (D-La.) had uncovered a "shocking" picture of Defense Department procurement practices. He said "some first-class overhauling" was needed to put Pentagon purchasing back in a competitors market.

Meanwhile, the House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee opened an investigation of the Defense Department's extensive land holdings.

The Committee Chairman, Representative Clair Engle (D-Calif.) said the Armed Forces hold enough land in the United States to make a strip 11 miles wide from New York to San Francisco, and is in the process of withdrawing an additional four million acres from the public domain.

As THE JOURNAL went to press, the Committee had called representatives of the Defense Department, Army, Navy, Air Force, and Marine Corps to tell how the military departments are now using the land they have and why they want more.

Top witnesses included Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense (Properties and Installations) Frank Ewing; Assistant Secretary of the Army (Financial Management) Chester R. Davis; Assistant Secretary of the Navy (Material) Raymond H. Fogler; Deputy Special Assistant for Air Force Installations G. S. Robinson; and Brig. Gen. C. R. Allen, USMC, Executive Office of the Marine Corps Supply Department.

Gen. Beau Retires

Maj. Gen. Lucas V. Beau, USAF, National Commander of Civil Air Patrol, ended a 39-year military career that included active duty as a pilot since 1918 when he retired on 31 Dec. 1955. Air Force Secretary Quarles commended General Beau for "outstanding services."

Shipbuilding Plans Include Atomic Missile Vessel, Forrestal Carrier And Six A-Subs

The Navy has its eye on a new atomic-powered guided missile ship.

Chairman Carl Vinson (D-Ga.) of the House Armed Services Committee disclosed the Navy's fiscal '57 shipbuilding plans this week when he introduced a new ship construction-conversion bill.

The measure (HR 7993) calls for six more atomic submarines and a sixth Forrestal-class aircraft carrier with conventional engines. Also included is a substantial conversion program.

The new atomic-powered guided-missile ship will be a light cruiser.

At the same time, Mr. Vinson asked the Congress to authorize the Navy to develop plans and designs for an atomic powerplant for a big carrier.

The group of ships to be converted includes one large aircraft carrier, three small carriers and three cruisers which will be rebuilt as guided missile vessels. One of the small carriers will be revamped for use by the Marine Corps as a helicopter assault vessel.

Farnsworth. At the time of his death, he was the oldest living officer of his rank, 93.

A native of Pennsylvania, General Farnsworth was graduated from the U. S. Military Academy in 1887. His first duty assignments were in Dakota Territory, where he participated in the last of the Indian campaigns. From 1903 to 1907, he served as Professor of Military Science and Tactics at the University of North Dakota. During the Spanish-American War he acted as quartermaster in the Santiago, Cuba, campaign and as aide to Gen. Adna R. Chaffee. Various duty assignments moved General Farnsworth to Alaska, where he constructed and commanded Ft. Gibbon; to the Philippine Islands, where he built Ft. McKinley; to San Francisco, where he constructed Presidio cantonments; and to Montana, Michigan and Kansas. In 1909 he was a distinguished graduate of the Army School of the Line and Staff College, Ft. Leavenworth, Kans., and in 1916, he was graduated from the Army War College. He served as a field Battalion Commander and as a Supply Base Commander with General Pershing's Punitive Expedition into Mexico.

In 1917, General Farnsworth was Commandant of the Infantry School of Arms at Ft. Sill, Okla., following which he commanded the 159th Infantry Brigade, Camp Lee, Va. He was advanced to the grade of major general on 16 April, 1918, following which, he trained and commanded the 37th Division of the AEF, and took part in the occupation of the Baccarat and St. Mihiel sectors and in the offensives in the Argonne-Meuse and Ypres-Lys campaigns.

Upon his return to the U. S. in 1919, General Farnsworth commanded Camp Bowie, Tex., for a short time, and was next assigned the duty of organizing and constructing the Infantry School, Ft. Benning, Ga., of which he was the first commandant. As of July 1, 1920, he was appointed Chief of Infantry, which office he held for four years, and Ft. Benning was further developed and expanded under his supervision and direction.

General Farnsworth was retired in March 1925, after more than forty years of active service. Following his retirement, he settled with his family at Altadena, Calif., where he took a vital interest and active part in community affairs until his last illness. He was selected as Grand Marshal of the 1931 Pasadena Tournament of Roses Parade and was the last Grand Marshal to lead the parade on horseback. In 1950 he acted as Grand Marshal of the Armed Forces Day Parade in Los Angeles.

General Farnsworth is survived by his son, Robert J. Farnsworth, residing at 556 E. Las Flores Dr., Altadena.

Vinson Offers Plan For Family Care

other features of the legislation (such as extended care for tuberculosis or polio patients).

Chairman Vinson referred the bill to Representative Paul Kilday's subcommittee and asked that it be taken up at the earliest possible date. The new measure takes in the Coast Guard as well as the other defense agencies.

Servicemen would be required to pay 30 per cent of the premium on the basic insurance policy and the entire premium on the two options. The Pentagon said no cost figures were yet firm but it is expected that the basic policy may work out to about $3 per family per month.

Authority also is provided in the bill for commanders outside the Continental U.S. to contract for medical care where no coverage or military medical facilities are available.

Under the insurance plan, members of military families could be treated in either military or civilian hospitals. They are given freedom of choice. Dependents of one Service could be treated in hospitals of any of the other services, and no member of a military family would be turned away from a military hospital if facilities are available for his or her treatment at the installation in question.

The option which was dropped from the earlier bill would have authorized medical care in civilian hospitals on a payment plan partially subsidized by the Government. The Pentagon had estimated, however, that only a small number (approximately 47,000 out of a total of 2,204,000 dependents) would have utilized this section of the plan.

It is expected that more than 57 per cent (or about 1.2 million members) of all military families will be cared for in military hospitals under the new proposal. The remaining 43 per cent (or about

The cost of the insurance plan initially was estimated at $88 million, with military families each paying $3 per month, or about $15 million of the total. "Real Strength" Lies in Calibre of Service Personnel, President Tells Congress

As in his previous State of the Union messages, President Eisenhower stressed the requirement to attract and hold capable military personnel.

"In the last analysis," he said, "our real strength lies in the calibre of the men and women in our Armed Forces, active and reserve. Much has been done ... but more needs to be done."

The Chief Executive renewed his request for legislation "to provide proper medical care for military dependents and a more equitable survivors' benefit program."

A family medical care bill, described in an adjacent column, is expected to receive a strong push from Defense Secretary Charles A. Wilson and other top Pentagon officials. A survivor benefit plan, which places all active military personnel under Social Security, has been approved by the House and is now pending before the Senate Finance Committee.

President Eisenhower said that the career program approved by the administration will include career incentive requests for medical and dental officers and nurses. These are being prepared by a Pentagon task force which is expected to ask that medical pay scales be raised.

Defense Secretary Wilson's proposal to add thousands of Regular officers, particularly in the Army and Air Force, has won support of the Administration. General Eisenhower said that an increase should be made in the proportion of Regular officers. Secretary Wilson has stated on numerous occasions that he believes the ratio of Regular and Reserve officers should be about 50-50; this would require appointment of approximately 50,000 Regular officers in the Army and Air Force.

In reporting to Congress on the "constant improvement of our National Security", President Eisenhower said that progress has been made in effectiveness and combat readiness "by developing and making operational new weapons and by integrating the latest scientific development, including new atomic weapons, into our military plans.

"We continue to push the production of the most modern military aircraft. The development of long range missiles has been on an accelerated basis for some time.

"We are moving as rapidly as practicable towards nuclear-powered aircraft and ships."

The President's forthcoming budget message is expected to ask funds for a nuclear-powered surface ship for the Navy.

The President advised Congress that combat capability, "especially in terms of firepower has been substantially increased." He said that "we have made the adjustments in personnel permitted by the cessation of the Korean war, the buildup of our Allies and the introduction of new weapons."

The President's obvious satisfaction with the way that the Armed Forces are currently operating and the need to maintain personnel strength at approximately current levels is evident in his statement that "the services are all planning realistically on a long-term basis."

AF "MOST IMPORTANT"

The Gallup Survey into attitudes towards the military services shows that 56 per cent of the Nation thinks the Air Force would be "the most important" Service in winning a war.

For the others, the percentages were as follows:

Army-8

Navy-2

Marine Corps-3

A total of 27 per cent said all Services were "equally important," while 4 per cent said they didn't know.
